U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to co-host Small Business Training and Industry Day Summit

The Omaha District, U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, will co-host Partnership 2003, a Small Business Training and Industry Day Summit. The summit will take place June 10 and 11 at the Antlers Adam's Mark in Colorado Springs, Colo.

Co-hosting partners include the Small Business Administration, the Society of American Military Engineers (Pikes Peak and Denver Posts) and a number of other public and private sector partners including the National Contract Management Association, U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, General Services Administration, State of Colorado, Genesis Environmental Team, Colorado Springs Military Installations Partnership and others.

"The purpose of Partnership 2003 is to provide a forum for organizations, the small business community and industry," says Deputy for Small Business Hubert J. Carter, Jr. "This summit will give these organizations a chance to explore available resources, opportunities and challenges that affect the way today's small businesses may interact and seek business opportunities with industry, federal, state and local agencies."

The summit will focus on designated industries including construction, heavy construction, special trade contractors, professional, scientific and technical services and waste management and remediation services.
